NEARING THE END.

Washington Society is Getting Ready to Leave, If Congress Does Hang So Drearly On.

STILL TALK COXEY.

President Getting Ready to Go to Gray Gables.

WASHINGTON, May 12.—[Special.]—Already the talk is of summer outings, and all sorts of social functions are being announced as the last in their line for the season. Society at one extreme is official and at the other Coxeys. It is given out as by authority that the president's family will soon be at Gray Gables for the summer, and that he will follow as soon as he can get Congress off his hands, but Coxeys swear by all the "fabled gods" that his army will stay till Congress passes the law for good roads and more greenbacks. In a certain sense the army remains, but it is the same army only as a moving cloud of desert sand may be called the same which loses on one side as fast as it gains upon the other. The same old process is at work which transpires in the bodies. The fellows who were in it for fun and those who have remnants of manhood and independence left are falling away, and their places are being supplied by new recruits of successively lower classes. Meanwhile there are, according to a careful estimate made by the police from detailed accounts received, just about 8,000 moribund industrialists on the way hither, but railroad men and labor leaders assure us that few or none of them will get here. All sorts of obstacles have been thrown in their way, and more will be. It was fun to cheer on the first column and not much of a burden to feed it, but the second that comes along is a nuisance, and the people want no more of it. So the chances are that we are done with the Coxeys end of society.

Social Matters.
President and cabinet, of course, could not think of a general prolonged absence till after the unveiling and dedication of the Mary Washington monument, for it has long been understood that they were all to be there, but Secretary Herbert and party are already in the far west, and official notice has been given that their visit will continue nearly a month. They are to visit Yellowstone park and other great sights easy of access, and the secretary is expected to acquire a large stock of information as to the needs of the Pacific coast in his department. Hon. W. L. Wilson is soon to take his old place in the house, and his friends declare that he is in much better physical condition than when he left, despite his serious illness. It is evident on all sides that the spring, or rather early summer, lull in Washington gaieties is at hand, and social leaders are making their selections at mountain and seashore for the summer. The theaters, however, have made no arrangements for many weeks ahead, and the volunteer musical and intellectual entertainments are arranged for apparently on the supposition that Congress will be here till the middle of July at any rate.

In the intellectual line the great event of this month will be the oratorical contest for the gold medal which is to be on the 17th. This affair is under the patronage of Mrs. John A. Logan, Mrs. Senators Cullom, Teller, Dolph and Wilson, Mrs. Representatives Pickler and Hopburn, Dr. Newman and others nearly as well known in Washington society.

An Electric Device.
At Albaugh's Grand Opera House the Edgar Strakosch Comic Opera company has begun an eight weeks' engagement, the first piece being "Girofle-Girofla." Of course wonderful promises are made as to new costumes, new scenery and talent, but the really striking fact is that prices have been brought down to a true hard times basis, prices of seats ranging from 25 cents to $1, and the $1 is for the best seat in the house reserved. A real novelty in the property line, if it be proper to call it so, is the electric dance, in which the soubrette appears covered with miniature incandescent lamps of various hues, and by the manipulation of the currents kaleidoscopic views are produced like those on the famous column which amazed and delighted visitors to the Electrical building at the Chicago World's fair. This is said to be the first representation of this kind in America, and the interest of the audience is greatly heightened by a very natural feeling that the currents are liable to go wrong and produce a sensational catastrophe.

In the line of more select entertainments the week opened with Mr. Krebich's parlor lecture on musical subjects, his talk ranging from the old Greek tragedy down through all the variations of music to the Wagnerian drama and the folk songs of the colored people and other native and uncultured Americans. Toward the last of this month the annual benefit for the charity fund of John A. Rawlins post of the G. A. R. will occur at the Academy of Music. In addition to the professionals who will appear in the leading piece, "The Three Dukes," there will be 60 amateur singers in chorus, including the best Washington voices.

Coquetting With Labor.
Although many congressmen are announced as among the promoters and patrons of these entertainments for charity's sake, and the members are liberal patrons of entertainments generally, yet their work has certainly not been neglected. Indeed it is held by the veterans of both parties that the house has been unusually diligent of late, and even the senate in the intervals of the tariff debate has done a great deal of important business. There is a general feeling among the members that in this campaign, as never before, there will be a great advantage in getting into the field early, and in the west especially an unusually large proportion of the nominating conventions have been called for early periods in the summer. It is remarked also that two or three new elements have come into the problem. In several western districts the party usually in the minority is coquetting with organized labor, and there is much talk of nominating men who hold positions in various labor bodies. Of all the campaigns, however, none attracts so much attention as that of Colonel Breckinridge, and it is astonishing how the old man has gained in the confidence of his colleagues. When he announced his determination to make the fight of his life for a re-election, Judge Culberson was quoted, and with some surprise, as the only man in congress who confidently predicted success. Now the judge has many supporters who aver that Breckinridge will pull through in spite of the women, the preachers, the Republicans and those ambitious Democrats who want a chance for his seat. It is agreed by the best campaigners in the house that his opening speech at Lexington was a success, and, in short, to borrow the language of that section, the betting is nearly even that he will come in ahead of his principal competitor by a neck.

M'GLYNN IS ALL RIGHT.

Satelli at Last Makes Public the Pope's

WASHINGTON, May 12.—Mgr. Satelli has made public an official statement on the reinstatement to the priesthood of Dr. McGlynn.

"The conditions on which I absolve Dr. McGlynn, by authority received from the Holy Father," said he, "were: first, that he should make a thorough statement of his views and doctrines in regard to social economy, and present to me, and I would revise them and then submit them to four doctors of divinity for revision. This condition he fulfilled, and it was acknowledged that nothing he did or said was opposed to the Catholic doctrine.

"Second—That Dr. McGlynn should make a written apology for whatever he might have said disrespectful of or derogatory to the ecclesiastical authorities and state that he admitted all the doctrines of the Catholic church, especially that the Holy Father teaches in his encyclical reum novum.

"And he fulfilled this condition also, and this declaration was immediately sent to the Pope Leo at Rome and was published in this country some time afterwards.

"Third—That Dr. McGlynn would promise that they would go to Rome after a certain definite time. His last condition was complied with also."

In reply to a question as to why Dr. McGlynn had not been appointed to a pastorate, Mgr. Satelli replied that he never interfered in such matters, and would not in this case.

He added that it was wholly untrue that there had been any falling out between Dr. McGlynn and himself; said it was equally false that he had written to Dr. McGlynn calling on him to retract and disown his teachings as had been reported.

He declared that it was not true that the pope had instructed Dr. McGlynn to withdraw from New York and vicinity for this reason.

This is one of the heaviest strains that comes upon any man or woman. A little cold, a little carelessness, and the work is done. The best of ability is rendered absolutely useless.

Mark Guy Pearse, the eminent English preacher, writes as follows:

"BEDFORD PLACE, RUSSELL SQUARE, LONDON, December 10, 1888."

"I think it only right that I should tell you of how much use I find Alcock's Pious Plasters in my family and among those to whom I have recommended them. I find them a very breastplate against colds and coughs."

NEWS OF KANSAS

Attempt to Remove Family With Smallpox to Pest House,

Nearly Precipitates a Serious Riot at Atchison.

OTHER STATE NEWS.

Awards Made in the Hutchinson Musical Contest.

ATCHISON, May 12.—An attempt to remove members of the Mills family who are suffering with smallpox met with resistance that for a while it looked like there would be trouble. When the officers appeared at the Mills' house and made known their business, Mills became greatly excited and told them that if they entered the room where the sick people were they would do so over his dead body.

While the discussion was in progress, some of Mills' friends drove the smallpox wagon away. Chief of Police White, who is personally acquainted with Mills, and who knows him to be a worthy man, decided not to use force.

Dr. Loper, the Mills' family physician, has declared that they are suffering with measles and chickenpox. It was finally agreed that Loper and four other physicians should visit the Mills family, and that if the decision of the physicians was that the patients were suffering with smallpox, Dr. Loper should recommend to Mills that he permit their removal to the hospital. The physicians, with the exception of Loper, found the disease to be smallpox, and Mills consented to have the patients removed.

FR. SCOTT, May 12.—J. L. Pugh, of Ashland, Kansas, is here searching for his brother, Charles H. Pugh, who is missing from his home at Winfield, where he is a leading physician.

He left his home to go to Texas to assist in some operation. Instead of going south, however, he came east, and has been traced as far as Ft. Scott. Before he left home he made out deeds to his wife for the bulk of his real estate, and arranged all his business affairs in a methodical manner. Ladies not found in the city, but a clue to his whereabouts has been found which leads to the conclusion that he is heading for Joplin, Missouri.

ALMA, May 12.—The trial of Ira Johnson, charged with the murder of his wife by administering poison to her with intent to kill and murder, resulted in an acquittal for the defendant, the jury being out but about twenty minutes.

They Don't Want the Burlington in Yellowstone Park.

CHEYENNE, Wyo., May 12.—The People's party state central committee has called the state convention to meet here August 9.

The committee has issued an address attacking the policy of both the Democratic and Republican parties and characterizing congressmen Coffeen's bill granting a right of way to the Burlington railroad through the Yellowstone national park as a scheme concocted under the name of "progress," and "development," to give to the corporations control of that heritage of the people.
